1961-1962 UMM FILM SERIES ANNOUNCED

A British comedy, "The Titfield Thunderbolt", will open the 1961-62 Film Series of the University of Minnesota, Morris. It will be shown to series subscribers on Monday, October 9.

This season's offerings will include four films each quarter, 12 in all, representing eight countries. All films will be exhibited at 8:30 p.m. on Monday evenings in Edson Hall auditorium.

The second film of the fall quarter, a French drama titled "Forbidden Games", is scheduled for October 30. The British comedy, "Lucky Jim", will be shown on November 13. The fall series will conclude November 27 with a modern Russian film, "Ballad of a Soldier".

Winter quarter offerings include "Aparajito", the second of a prize-winning trilogy from India on January 15; "The Sheep Has Five Legs", a French comedy starring Fernandel, on February 5; "Confessions of Felix Krull", German adaptation of Thoman Mann's novel on February 19; and "Ivan the Terrible:", Eisenstein's classic film on the famous Russian ruler on March 5.

A Swedish love story, "One Summer of Happiness", will open the spring quarter series on April 2. A French comedy, "Four Bags Full", will be offered April 16 and the famous American Film, "I Am A Camera", will follow on April 30. Closing the series will be "Open City" the first of the Italian neo-realist films, scheduled for May 14.
